"He has been discharged. The discharge process has been completed, but he is still in the hospital," a source told PTI on Tuesday.

During his hospital stay, his children - Salman Khan, Arbaaz Khan, Alvira and Arpita - along with sons-in-law Atul Agnihotri and Aayush Sharma, visited him regularly. His long-time collaborator Javed Akhtar also visited him.

Salim Khan was admitted to the hospital on February 17

A day after Salim Khan was admitted to Lilavati Hospital last month, Dr Jalil Parkar from the hospital had shared a health update. He stated that Salim Khan suffered a very minimal brain haemorrhage, for which a basic procedure called 'DSA' was performed. The procedure was successful, and no surgery was carried out on him. "Salim Khan is currently on a ventilator. He is expected to be taken off the ventilator by today or tomorrow. He is very fit, even by your (journalists') standards. He was brought here yesterday morning at 8:30 am. As a precaution, he has been kept in the ICU on a ventilator," the doctor explained.

A statement by the doctor's team at Lilavati said: "Hello everybody An official news bulletin was released at around 1.00 pm today dated February 18, 2026 with the consent of the relatives which was meant to be crisp and factual. Yesterday i.e. February 17, 2026, at 8.30 am, Mr. Salim Khan was brought to the emergency department of Lilavati Hospital by their family doctor, Dr. Sandeep Chopra. After the initial assessment, patient was initiated treatment in the emergency department and was shifted to the ICU on the first floor for further management. After due diligence by the team of doctors consisting of Dr. Vinay Chauhan (neurologist), Dr. Ajit Menon (cardiologist), Dr. Nitin Dange (neurosurgeon), Dr. Kirti Upadhyaya (nephrologist) and Dr. Bineet Ahluwalia, a consensual modality of treatment was initiated. Patient was intubated for better managed care and further investigations."

It was further added, "Today i.e. February 18, 2026, a procedure called as
